1. Neskowin Beach: Moderately steep beach break. There's a daytime only parking lot about a quarter mile from the beach. Pacific City waters to the north are reportedly shark infested and there has been at least one attack here.
2. Road's End: The breaks from Road's End to Glenenden (2 thru 9) are best from mid tide and up. Three breaks here. The best is at the sandbar off the headland, with north wind protection. Down from the end of the access road and north, there is a cliff reef break. There is a third beach break at the State parking lot.
3. Lincoln City, three breaks:
  - a. 15th Street NW: Good summer morning beach break. Big and hollow in fall and winter and hard to escape.
  - b. 11th Street NW/Canyon Drive: Beach only as in 15th Street.
  - c. 35th Street SW Nelscotts: Beach break as in 15th Street.
4. Pacific Street: Good early morning break. Windy and exposed in the afternoon.
5. Glenenden: Two spots. Best one is a reliable long right and short left at the end of the access trail. The other is a beach break below the Glenenden Beach lookout.
6. Fish Rock: Breaks left at the point and at the sandbars on the N side of the rocky point that is protected from the south wind. Access via Fishing Rock Street. Park and walk the short trail north. Best mid tide up.
7. Boiler Bay: Well named. Not for beginners and watch for submerged rocks. Easy paddling and good southwesterly swells but strenuous, fast, right point breaks. Safe up to 15 feet. Low tide for small swells, high tide for big swells. South side by the wall is good for long-board lefts and there are lefts inside the bay.
8. Whale Cove: Expertise and experience is needed for this classic hollow right point break. It is protected from the wind, but there's a strong current from the cove when paddling from Rocky Creek across the channel.
9. Otter Rock: Beginners beach break with lefts and rights. Protected from the N but watch for rip when the swells are big from the S.
10. Beverly Beach: Good beach breaks from here to Starfish Beach. Creeks form good sandbars. Watch for cross shore rips. State Park.
  - a. Moolach Beach: Same as Beverly Beach
  - b. Starfish Beach: Same as Beverly Beach
11. North Side: Sandy point. Steep, short rights and longer lefts. There's a good exit rip by the rocks with protection from southerly winds. Access from 55th Street Park Take the trail.
12. Agate Beach: Beginners break with short, hollow lefts on the high tide, and fun, longer rights. North wind protection.
13. Nye Beach: Beach break with lefts near the jetty. Possible pollution from pulp mill.

14. The Box: Small break of hollow rights on S side of the jetty but only on negative tides. Beware of strong rip near the jetty.

15. South Beach: A beach break with epic long lefts, which can sometimes close out on you. Some short, hollow rights. Can hold to 15 feet. Some cross/offshore winds – and some sharks. Access from State Park or jetty.

16. Alsea Rivermouth: Breaks right and left at the mouth of the river. Best around high tide.

17. Yachats: Beach break – rights. A southerly or southwesterly wind will increase the size of the swells

18. Neptune: This right point break is good at any tide if the swells are large.

Can be epic but not that often. Access through the State Park.

19. Bob Creek: Right breaks in front of the rock shelf on a low to mid tide. There's another right inside with wind protection. Lefts on the other side of the cove. Park on the wayside.

20. Gull Haven: Beach break. Nothing special.

21. Devil's Elbow: Small breaks, but mean rips. Well protected from the wind.

22. Florence South Jetty: Beach break – rights. A southerly or southwesterly wind will increase the size of the swells. Also breaks hollow lefts inside the harbor but only when the swells are big at low tide.
